About the home

The home, located on the old Marmaduke Health Centre site in Hull, will have 18 large, ground-floor bedrooms - each with an en suite wet room. The home will be surrounded by an easy-access sensory garden and include a communal hub, living and dining spaces for residents and their friends and family to socialise. The home will also have sensory and therapy rooms which provide a dedicated space for rehabilitation.

Life at Marmaduke

The home will provide person-centred care and rehabilitation that focuses on maximising independence, building everyday living skills and empowering people to live as fulfilled lives as possible. It'll support people on their journey from being in hospital or living in a secure setting to community and independent living, as well as offering longer term support for people living with degenerative or life-limiting illnesses.
